

Kia ora, Hello

After launching the museum's first large-scale crowdfunding campaign on Monday 8 May, we are well on the way to achieving the $15,700 goal to replace the Museum's aging spouting.

You may have seen articles in local media, and this morning we featured in Stuff, you can read the article here.

Success with this project is due to the super generosity of over 100 supporters, and the expert knowledge of The Funding Network and Givealittle. We are enormously grateful to everyone who has reached into their pocket to make a donation - sometimes more than once - and/or has shared our crowdfunding with friends and whānau. Ngā mihi nui ki a koutou katoa.

However, we are not there yet!

The crowdfunding ends at midnight on Friday, 12 May.

Help 'Stop the Leaks' at the Museum

$10,300 of $15,700 goal

Given by 100 generous donors in 9 days

How you can help?

MP for Banks Peninsula Tracey McLellan has generously pledged to donate $500 if we can match it with other donations from Thursday to the end of the crowdfunding at midnight Friday. You can help unlock this by making a donation.

If you are not able to donate, a great way of helping is to share our campaign far and wide, chat with friends/whānau/neighbours about it, and share our social media posts from Facebook or Instagram.
